

Process and Intention

- Starting with a basic plastic cup a plaster mold was made and wet porcelain models were slip-cast for sculpting.
- After finishing a sculpted cup shape a new two part plaster mold was made to slip-cast a final set. The bisque fired cups were then sanded glazed and fired again.
- The concept of the piece was to shape the cup around the fingers and thumb of my right hand to create a cup that's purely functionalistic who's aesthetics are defined by its user interface.
